Synopsis book

Feel the Spin is a work of historical fiction that explores the tension between traditional theology and secularism. The story traces the relationships among a transplanted Northern family, a college community, and the local townsfolk in South Carolina ten years after the end of the American Civil War. During this period, the country has entered a period of dramatic change, as manifested by the abrupt end of the Reconstruction era, a surge in public awareness of world events and new social movements, an explosion of scientific discoveries, and the rapid onset of the machine age. The central character is Thomas Walters, a young Pennsylvanian who has joined the faculty of Tideland College in the fall of 1875 as a professor of the recently introduced disciplines of natural philosophy and astronomy. The novel follows the experiences of Thomas, his wife, and their two children; two former slaves employed by the family; a humorously skeptical professor of Latin; and three questing,
